FrontRange GoldMine 7.03 Corporate Edition Recognized by VARBusiness Magazine as one of Top 45 Best of the Midmarket

CMP Publication Says GoldMine Has "Serious Impact in the Midmarket Space"

Dublin, CA August 23, 2006

GoldMine 7.03, the award-winning solution for business relationship management, team-based contact management and sales force automation from FrontRange Solutions, has been recognized by CMP Media's VARBusiness magazine as one of the 2006 Top 45 Best of the Midmarket products. GoldMine was one of only five products featured in the "Business Software" category.

The biweekly magazine that provides strategic insight to technology integrators solicited input from information-technology (IT) vendors and solution providers to determine which products and services were best for midmarket customers – companies with between 100 and 999 employees. Editors narrowed the field to those that best meet midmarket needs and represent a broad spectrum of technology areas, from security solutions to servers to business applications. Entries were carefully considered and reviewed by VARBusiness editors, who selected only 45 of the more than 150 vendors that submitted more than 350 nominations.

GoldMine is featured and profiled in the special August 7th VARBusiness issue.

"FrontRange has put a stake in the ground in the midmarket, where its GoldMine CRM products have been popular among partners and customers. The latest version of the software features a simplified data format, which makes configuration easier for partners," Carolyn April, Managing Editor of VARBusiness cited in the recent article.

"To be able to move from the Top 100 honor last year to Top 45 this year shows the commitment and dedication FrontRange has to being the leader in relationship management solutions for the midmarket and distributed enterprises. It's important to us that VARs have a solution that answers all their needs," said Michael McCloskey, CEO of FrontRange Solutions. "The midmarket is a critical focal point in our business, and we're honored to be recognized among top vendors in this space."
